Pries Accepts R. Cross Job

Clarence W. Pries, business manager of the college, will be leaving the campus soon to accept a position of field director with the American Red Cross, according to news released by him this week.

Mr. Pries was contacted by Red Cross officials some time ago for the position, which will involve acting as a liaison man between soldiers on military installations and the military officials.

"This job presents me with an opportunity to enter the type of work with which I have had experience during the last war. There are many situations in which a Red Cross officer can help the individual soldier, chiefly because he is not part of the military hierarchy," he commented.

According to present plans, Mr. Pries will leave Wartburg March 26 for St. Louis, midwestern headquarters of the Red Cross. He will stay there for about a month before being transferred to some military camp. As soon as he is definitely established, he intends to have his wife, June, and their two small children join him.

Brotherhood Members Pay Last Of $20,000 Pledge

By Bill Stave

Final payment of the Iowa District Brotherhood's $20,000 gift to equip the Knights gym was made Monday, Feb. 19, when the board of directors presented a check for $1,200 to President C. H. Becker.

Over four hundred Brotherhood members from all parts of Iowa flocked to Waverly for the fourth annual Iowa District Brotherhood institute at Wartburg.

Hulme Officiates.

Opening devotional period, conducted by Dr. William Hulme, college chaplain, began the day for the Brotherhood members. Special music was furnished at the morning and afternoon sessions by the Choralaires, Wartburg quartet. The Knight band appeared at St. Paul's parish house during the noon hour, when dinner was served by the ladies' aid.

Afternoon program featured an address by Dr. William Sodt, first vice-president of the American Lutheran church, and the presentation of the mission advance by Dr. H. W. Siefkes, president of the Iowa district of the ALC. The Wartburg athletic department offered a wrestling demonstration in the Knights gym.

Cheer Hardcourters.

Informal coffee hour was enjoyed by Brotherhood members in the Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance building late in the afternoon. At the Wartburg-Buena Vista basketball game in the evening, the four hundred men constituted an impressive rooting section.

H. C. Engelbrecht, institute manager, commented, "This was a well-balanced program, the feature addresses of the morning being made by laymen and in the afternoon by ministers. About 55 towns were represented, making this the biggest institute we have had."

Frosh, Sophomores, Juniors To Decide On Standard Rings

Freshmen, sophomores and juniors will be asked to vote on the proposed standard class rings at special class meetings to be called next week, according to "Pete" Becker, junior and chairman of the ring committee.

Announcement regarding the exact date of these meetings will be made next Tuesday, Feb. 27, in convocation. The proposed ring will replace the present standard ring if it is accepted by the three classes concerned.

Committee members met last Thursday night with representatives of the Josten Jewelry company, leading ring manufacturers who are at present serving many high schools and colleges throughout the nation.

Students will be presented with a choice between two rings, at least one of which will be of a design used by no other institution, according to Becker.

Five Candidates In Race For Editorships

Names of five candidates for editorships of student publications were released this week by the faculty-student publications committee. Students will elect editors of student publications in an election to be held in March.

Sole applicant for editorship of the TRUMPET for the 1951-52 college year is Bob Gremmels, junior, and present managing editor. Herman Diers, sophomore, and Fred Moberg, junior, are candidates for editorship of the Fortress, college yearbook. Applying for editorship of Castle Tales, campus literary magazine, are Harold Pennington, sophomore, and Howard Rand, junior.

Write-In Vote Allowed.

Since there is no contest for TRUMPET editorship, a write-in vote will be permissible. However, should a write-in candidate win the election, he must meet the qualifications set up by the publications committee and already met by the other candidate.

Enrolled in an arts-seminary course with a major in speech, Herman Diers is serving on both TRUMPET and Fortress staffs during the current school year.

Diers Gives Opinions.

In his application to the publications committee Mr. Diers stated, "A yearbook is a symbol of memory. It is a device by which the individual remembers the most important events of his academic and extracurricular education. The person who assumes the position of editor of such a publication must retain both phases of this duty in his work."

Fred Moberg, the other candidate for the Fortress editorship, is also preparing for the ministry. Vice-president of World Affairs Forum, Moberg is a history major. He is TRUMPET sports editor and has done both advertising and reporting work in this publication. Class editor of the 1950 Fortress, he is also a member of the 1951 Fortress staff.

Would Have Large Staff.

"If selected editor, I would attempt to organize a large staff in order to gain a large number of original ideas that could be projected into a yearbook. With many ideas, an annual could portray the year at Wartburg as a living, colorful year in the experiences of students and faculty," said Moberg's application for the editorship.

Approved candidates for editorship of Castle Tales are Harold Pennington and Howard Rand, both now members of the Castle Tales staff.

Harold Pennington, an arts-seminary student with an English major, is secretary-treasurer of Chi Rho.

Pennington Wants Balance.

In applying for editorship of Castle Tales, Pennington noted, "The trend toward a balance between the light and the serious which showed itself in the current edition is one which I would have continued. There are many students of a high caliber who possess writing ability in fields other than humor, and in broadening the scope of the magazine in this manner, the editors have taken a definite step towards a greater abundance of eligible material as well as increased circulation."

Howard Rand, vice-president of the junior class, is a future minister with a major in English.

"I still would endeavor to maintain the original foundation of Castle Tales, the literary creativeness in prose and poetry, as the main body of the magazine, though I should like to stress articles that would come closer to Wartburg's life and traditions," stated Rand in his application to the publications committee.

2 Added To Honor Roll

Additions to the first semester honor roll were released this week by Miss Mattie K. Harms, registrar. Re-check showed that the names of Judy Vogel, graduating senior, and Paula Schiffler, junior, were accidentally omitted from the list which was released last week.

Seniors To Give $250 Toward Bell System

Seniors this week voted $250 toward purchase of a master clock for the proposed new bell system to be installed in Luther hall.

Following the discussion on types of clocks available, led by C. W. Pries, business manager of the college, it was decided to provide $250 for the securing of a masterclock, as the 1951 senior class project.

Details, such as type and make of clock, and accessories, such as secondary clocks and bells, are to be taken care of at a later date by the school, the seniors' only obligation being to present the cash. Sufficient funds will be available after class dues have been collected for this semester.

Snyder Talks To PEO

Miss Hazel May Snyder, home economics instructor here, spoke on the "Value of Hobbies" at a meeting of the PEO, local women's social group, on Tuesday, Feb. 20. To emphasize her talk, Miss Snyder demonstrated some hobby collections.

Tomorrow 1st Day Of '51 Band Tour

Tomorrow the Wartburg band will begin its second annual concert tour with an appearance at Iowa State Teachers college, according to Philip Mueller, senior and president of the band. This initial appearance will be followed by a concert in Grundy Center Sunday evening.

The 48 band members will be taken by two buses on their eight-day tour through central Iowa. Concerts will be given in Cedar Falls, Grundy Center, Traer, Dysart, Tama, Winterset, Fontanelle, Ogden, Glidden, Pomeroy, Pocahontas, Gilmore City, Renwick, Dows, Belmond, Rockwell, Holstein and Manly. Afternoon concerts are planned for high school students, while the evening appearances will be for the general public.

Repertoire of 60 numbers will afford much variation in the program. Added attractions will be instrumental solos by band members and piano numbers by Marjory Gross, sophomore.

Plans for this year's tour were made by the Rev. C. G. Shalkhauser, assistant director of public relations, and Art Meyer, vice-president of the band. The band is under the direction of Edfield Odegard.

Dr. Hulme Honored; Quoted By 'Time' On Psych Article

National recognition has come to Dr. William E. Hulme, assistant professor of Christianity here, with the publication in the Feb. 26 issue of Time magazine of a condensed version of his article on pastoral counseling which earlier appeared in its entirety in the Christian Century.

Although not the first piece of Dr. Hulme's writing ever to be published, this article marks the first time that he has been quoted in a magazine of the scope of Time.

Theology Important.

Subject of the piece is the importance of theology in pastoral counseling. Dr. Hulme writes:

"Ministers are often so afraid of scaring people away with theology that they fail to realize its healing possibilities."

"Consider the feeling of guilt. Any religion that is going to satisfy human need must come to grips with this problem. The doctrine of the Atonement deals with guilt at the grass roots."

Psych Reveals Causes.

Psychology, according to Hulme, can reveal the causes of many spiritual ills. Only theology can furnish the answers. Rather than frustrating man, theology offers him a way out.

"Guilt is really composed of two parts," he continues. "One is the sense of failure, the other the dread of just consequence. Through the receptivity of faith, the sinner can make the Atonement his own and solve the conflict."

Pastoral counseling and theology are both working for the same ends. Together, they can form an unbeatable team in ministering to human needs, he concludes.

Transmitter Arrives; KWAR On Air Soon

Wartburg's long-awaited radio transmitter arrived this week and station KWAR will soon be on the air, according to Ray Wilderman, station adviser.

Broadcasting is scheduled to begin just as soon as all technical details have been completed. All the audio has now been hooked up, and yesterday the tower was connected.

Station Manager Herb Hildebrandt, junior, reports that all the programs have been lined up and are ready to go on the air. However, students still wishing to join the staff are welcomed.

Casting Completed For Players' 'Noah'

Final casting of "Noah," Wartburg Players' Lenten production to be staged March 9 and 9, was released earlier this week by Director Raymond Wilderman.

Herman Diers, leading actor in "Elizabeth, the Queen," returns to the stage in the lead role, Noah. Other male supporting roles include Noah's sons, Shem played by Clarence Bruninga, senior; Ham by Duane Daggett, and Japheth by Barton Bauer, both freshmen.

New talent on the stage will be freshmen Ruth Lechner as Mama and Glowrine Weber in the part of Norma. Also appearing for the first time under the lights is Mary Alexander, sophomore, as Ada.

Completing the cast are veteran Harold Wienke, senior, as a Man; Carl Knitt, freshman, as the Bear; Herb Hildebrandt, junior, as the Lion; Don Rice, freshman, as the Tiger; Eve Reisner, freshman, as the Monkey, and newcomer Greta Diers, freshman, as the Elephant.

Home Ec Students To Gain Experience

Practical experience will be gained by the home economics class studying modern foods when the members prepare and serve a dinner at the home economics house next Tuesday, Feb. 27.

About twenty guests, members of Wa Tan Ye, local women's service club, are expected to attend.

Serving a dinner is a project of each semester's modern foods class.

Two Win Ad Contest

For the second consecutive week, the TRUMPET sponsored another ad-errors contest in last Saturday's issue, but apparently nobody was caught off guard. Shortly after the paper came out, Marcea Moeller, sophomore, and Dona Fredericbsen, freshman, brought in the corrected misspellings and were awarded free theater tickets.

Buildings Progress

Construction is well under way for both the new south wing addition to Luther hall and the new home for President C. H. Becker. Workmen this week began pouring concrete for both the structures, and the building program is proceeding according to schedule. Dr. Becker's residence, located at the corner of Fourth avenue and Ninth street, is expected to be completed by this summer.

Election Results Of Seniors Given

Results of the Fortress primary elections, held at last Tuesday's convocation to determine the most representative man and woman of the senior class, have been released by Don Groskreutz, junior and editor of the yearbook.

Dorothy Diers, with 67 votes, and Doris Herrboldt, with 62, were the two top women.

Leading the senior men was Melvin Gleiter, who polled 87 votes. Wayne Stumme was second with 59 and Norm Fintel third with 57, just one vote ahead of Bob Herder's 56. Fifth and sixth places went to Ray Harms and Harold Wiltshire, with 46 and 34 votes respectively. Wiltshire narrowly defeated Dean Price, who received 31 votes.

Final elections will take place at convocation next Tuesday, Feb. 27. From the two top women and six men, one of each will be chosen to be featured in the Fortress as the most representative students of the senior class.

Judicial Board Should Have Constitution

During the past two or three years, a rash of constitution-making has broken out on the Wartburg campus. Organization after organization either amended its old laws or adopted entirely new ones. The student body constitution was junked, a new one written and shortly afterward adopted by a whopping majority.

All this feverish "constitutional" activity points to a healthy development in student life on this campus—a trend toward increased and definite organization of student responsibility. Slowly but surely, we were finding our bearings and mapping the areas of our jurisdiction as compared to that of the administration.

All in all, this trend has made for a better, more honest relationship between administration and students. It is much less difficult to arrive at satisfactory solutions when each party knows just how far his power extends.

There is one field of student affairs where this trend seems to have stopped, however—the administration and enforcement of dormitory regulations for college women. We say women here mainly because the coeds have an established student board which is supposedly empowered to handle disciplinary problems arising under the existing rules—the Women's Judicial board.

That board could fulfill a very important function on this campus, considerably increasing student responsibility and bringing the realization of the true "honor system" a good step closer. But its needs a constitution.

At present, the board, has no definitely determined function. It has the power to handle some problems, such as "AWOL's," but others are removed from its jurisdiction. For example, infractions of the "no-smoking" rule in Wartburg hall come directly under the Dean of Women's jurisdiction.

Frankly, we can't see the difference. Both offenses are infractions of dormitory rules. Both are purely disciplinary problems. Why, then, should one be handled by the dean while the Judicial board takes care of the other? Where is the difference?

We don't object here to the penalties inflicted upon women caught smoking in the dorm. But we do believe that such cases, like all other disciplinary problems, should first of all be referred to the Judicial board. Not that the board would inflict a lesser penalty. Rules are rules. But the board should be consulted in all such cases if it is to be more than a sham.

A well drawn up constitution could easily take care of this problem. A definition of duties, jurisdiction and powers is needed here. Given that constitution, the Judicial board can become an influential factor in student self-administration. Without it, it is little more than pretty facade in front of an empty lot.

Amendment Explained

Wartburg students will be voting on a proposed amendment to their Student Body constitution sometime in the next few weeks. Any matter as important as a constitutional change deserves to be well-aired before making a decision concerning it. Free discussion is a basic principle in every democracy worthy of the name, and ours is no exception.

Here is the problem. It concerns the duties, or lack of duties, of Student Body vice-president. The mere fact that he is the vice-president is proof enough that we students consider him to be a well-qualified individual. Yet his office gives him little opportunity of exercising the qualities of leadership which he possesses. So the problem is how to provide him with greater opportunities to be of service to those whom he represents. We want to inject more efficiency into our government and at the same time not destroy its democratic nature.

Several things must be considered in finding a solution. If we want to enlarge the vice-president's area of responsibility, we must be sure that it doesn't conflict with that of the president. The president, according to the constitution, is not subordinate to any of his colleagues in student government. But there still may be an honest conflict of opinion between the president and vice-president, since their platforms differed when they were running for office. Another consideration in finding a more important position for the vice-president is that his new job must not encroach upon any of the departments already established.

Your Student Senate research committee went to work on this problem. First, it was noted that the president's main business is concerned with student affairs on the campus. Second, the committee observed that a wide field is opening up in intercollegiate relations, especially since Wartburg will probably join the National Student association. It was then simple to conclude that there was a place where the vice-president could be fitted in. A responsible executive would be needed to maintain relations with other students and student organizations. He would exchange ideas, receive helpful information, and be responsible for the voice of Wartburg students in the expanding sphere of intercollegiate activity. The benefits of his actions would be passed on to all the students on this campus.

The proposal you will vote on, then, will be whether you want your Student Body vice-president to serve you as sort of a Wartburg "secretary of state." Increased efficiency in student government would certainly result. Most important of all, we would be making an official whom we elected responsible for the influx of new ideas which might enable us to improve student government and enrich student life to a greater degree than ever before.

Disc Dope By "Doc"

After three weeks of solitary confinement, the TRUMPET board of record reviewers (Doc, Doc, Doc and Doc) has been released and permitted to pass judgment on a few more of the latest platters. So here's the dope!

* * *

Since the recent revival of Dixieland, numerous new Dixie combos have sprung up all over the country. Unfortunately, most of them sound like New Year's Eve noise-makers—that is, with the exception of the Basin Street Six. This new outfit from New Orleans features two promising teenagers, George Girard on trumpet and Pete Falton on clarinet, and they're terrific! They've just cut a long-play disc spotlighting eight jazz evergreens, including "High Society," "South Rampart Street Parade," "Lazy River" and "Margie." Here's jazz at its best.

* * *

Song writers are still robbing the classics—and still converting them into hits. Latest pilferage is called "Tell Me You Love Me" and is "borrowed" from "Vesti la Giubba" from the opera "Pagliacci." Several of the top crooners have recorded it, but the outstanding rendition is by tenor Clark Dennis. Clark not only gives the song a treatment which appeals to sentimentalists, but also retains its operatic touch. We like it!

* * *

Ray Anthony's latest waxing is punningly titled "All Anthony and No Cleopatra." And it's just what the title implies. However, Ray's trumpet on this platter is way below par, and therefore, we believe we'd rather have a little more Cleopatra.

* * *

Incidentally, Wartburg's music lovers may be interested to know that the Hilltop cafe has recently installed a new 100-selection Seeburg juke box, packed with fine recordings—three plays for a dime.

* * *

Much as we hate to admit it, "Stan Kenton Presents," latest album by the "mad master," has many outstanding qualities. We especially like the two sides featuring the stratospheric trumpet of Maynard Ferguson and the dynamic sax work of Art Pepper.

* * *

Tops among the popular ballads of the day are Perry Como's "If" and Tony Martin's "I Apologize." Both platters feature vocalists at their best, backed by exceptional orchestral accompaniments.

* * *

We hear that the McDougal Recording Co. is considering releasing some of its rare masters featuring Joe "Eddy Arnold" Baumgartner and his Sandburg-charmed guitar. So we'll be nice and close this column quick before that happens. We hate to pan friends!

From Our Readers

To the Editor:

I wish to use this medium to inform all and sundry that I have enough hours to be a senior, consider myself one and intend to graduate with the class of '51. May I please be included in all senior functions from now on?

Sincerely yours,
Harold Wienke

Dear Editor:

Since only about one-half the students of Wartburg have paid their extra 50 cents to help cover TRUMPET printing costs, it is evident that some further action must be taken. We all know what the results would be.

All of us will certainly agree that costs have risen tremendously and that there is a need for additional funds. But do we actually believe what we agree to? It certainly does not appear so. People who are firm in their beliefs will support them, but it seems that some Wartburg students are lacking in this quality.

Let's prove that this statement is incorrect, by cooperating 100 per cent with our editor and paying the money, so that he may continue to send us our TRUMPET.

Sincerely yours.
Lois Marx (freshman)

DIERS' TRACKS

Since the time is coming for me to meet the challenge of Communism by taking a world tour at government expense, I'm getting anxious. Some of my favorite characters are leaving. I just hope one of them won't be me. My family is looking forward to someone else shouldering the expense. So is the clinic. . . You know I've always wondered whether Doris Herrholdt drank coffee when she was a little girl.

After an extended poll I've found that 34 per cent of the fellas on campus are not going with the woman of their dreams. But, said most of them, we're now going with our necks best choice.

Woe be tide! We went 125 miles through slick and spin and couldn't even get into Loras's hall of triumph. But come last game our froggy palates agreed that our BB squad was Yeah and O. K. . . . Most everyone agreed that watching the Brotherhood cheer was an equally good show. We, the misty-eyed die-hards, are still hoping for the NCAA to catch up with Loras and Westmar.

Hey, did you ever look at it this way? If you go to class on time, it makes the period seem so much longer? I really ought to write a farewell column. I won't have to after this one, tho. . . But Wienke got story-of-the-week on his . . I see his true character is coming out in his next play. He is listed on the dramatis personae as a Man. . . feature that . . . above and beyond that, he's gonna be slightly inebriated. Tsk, tsk!

Did you ever realize that if every person on the roll call of this here very liberal arts college would kick in, shell out, decant or pledge in halfway good faith the sum of one buck, we could have a television set and a lounge for viewing to boot? I think the majority of people here don't like Rice Krispies anyway.

Found a little card on one of the tables in the Den—said "Ash trays are for ashes!" Some good chap, bless him, wrote underneath, "Give us some cigarettes so we can use it!" Some one's on to something, ever since the parson's address at the valentine shindig . . the "article" on the door at Wartburg hall made me wonder . . . heh, heh.

Torrid Axmen Rip Central There, 84-66

By Dick Lynch

Knights wrote a successful end to their current cage season last night as they trounced Central 84-66 at Pella. It was as fine an exhibition of basketball as Wartburg has staged all year, with very few stray passes thrown, excellent shooting from everywhere on the court, and a rugged rebounding game off both boards.

Offensive totals ties the single game record set back on December 1, when the Knights hit Doane 84-54. From the field last night the winners shot just slightly below 40 per cent, with 33 baskets in 91 tries. Central shot 85 times, connected on 25 for 26 per cent.

The victory gives the Knights a season's record of 13 wins and nine losses.

Miller Gets 17, Ole 20.

Art Miller, playing his last collegiate ball game for the Orange and Black, turned in his usual fine floor game and totaled 17 points, but gave up scoring honors to Paul Olson. Big Ole canned nine fielders and two free shots for 20 points.

Wartburg raced away to a 13-5 margin in the opening minutes of action as each of the starters hit from the field at least once. From that time on the winners had things pretty much as they wished, with a 22-11 count midway in the first period, 33-15 with five minutes remaining in the half, and 39-19 with two minutes to go. The half ended at 44-26, the same margin standing as the final gun sounded.

Lead 65-41 Once.

At one point in the first period the hosts whittled Wartburg's margin to 10 points, but Bill Adix and added a free throw to boost whipped in two quick hook shots his mates to another commanding lead.

The biggest spread of the evening came with slightly over 10 minutes to play in the game, when the Knights grabbed a 85-41 lead.

In the last two minutes the Knights had several chances to soar to a record point total, but they missed five consecutive free throws in that time.

In the absence of ailing Coach Ax Bundegaard, assistant Earnie Oppermann handled the coaching chores.

Knights Bow To Duhawks; Sneak Past Beavers 62-57

By Chuck Lutz

Wartburg's hardcourters slipped by Buena Vista, 62-57, Monday night, to wind up conference play with their best record in over a decade. Finishing behind Westmar and Loras, the Knights compiled a five-five loop mark to tie for third with Luther.

Playing before four hundred visiting Brotherhood men, the Axmen staged one of their poorer exhibitions of the season and had to come from behind to win. After going ahead in the first few minutes, the Knights found themselves in a rough, loosely-played seesaw affair. During period one, neither team enjoyed a margin of more than five points as the lead changed hands seven times.

Axmen Ahead At Half.

At halftime Wartburg held a scanty 32-30 margin over the Beavers. Aided by a defensive lag on the part of the Knights, Buena Vista jumped to an imposing 46-37 lead with eight minutes gone in the second half. Accuracy at the free-throw stripe brought the Knights back gradually, however, and with about five minutes to go, Art Miller tied the count at 53-all.

In quick succession Miller, Olson and Fritz Steinhauer fouled out for Wartburg, but the Axmen forged ahead 57-53 and fought off useless BV attempts to come back. Art Miller, playing his last game in the Knights gymnasium, hit 10 of 13 gift tosses and five field goals to lead the Orange and Black with 20 points.

Campbell had 11 for Wartburg, Fritz Steinhauer 9, and Adix bit 3 in two brief appearances in the ball game. Branstetter of BV led all scorers for the evening with 21 tallies.

Knights Fall To Loras.

At Dubuque last Saturday night the Knights started fast, then withered before Loras, 79-67. Early in the game the Duhawks got a scare, as Wartburg scored nearly every time the ball was brought down-court. Olson, Campbell and Bostrack took turns pushing home long set shots and gave Wartburg a 23-17 lead midway in the first half.

Then McCabe started hitting for Loras and the home team went ahead at 26-25. The rest of the first half was a scoring free-for-all, and it looked as though the two quintets were out to set a one-game scoring mark. Loras was quite securely in the lead, 50-39, at the half.

Duhawks Lead by 14.

After intermission the Duhawks extended their lead to 14 points within six minutes. Wartburg cut the margin to seven points at 66-55, but got no closer. The victory gave Loras a tie for division honors with Westmar. Both finished with eight-two records.

Wartburg hit 83 per cent of its free throws at Loras, converting on 13 out of 23, a team-high for the season. Campbell poured in 19 points for the Knights, 13 in the first half, as Olson followed with 14. McCabe, playing his last game at home for Loras, came through with 30 counters.

With two encounters scheduled for the same evening, Coach Earnie Oppermann split his "B" squad two ways and played both games. The Squires lost to Loras "B" 59-45, while the other reserve outfit was downing Bellevue, 81-56. In Monday night's preliminary, the local "B's" trounced ISTC Frosh, 68-52. Squires now hold 12-6 season's record.

Cager Steinhauer 'Athlete' This Week

By Wayne Koetz

Frederick (Fritz) Steinhauer, Madison, Wis., junior, was chosen by the "W" club committee this week as Athlete-of-the-Week for his outstanding performances during the Loras tilt a week ago and the Buena Vista game last Monday night.

Although scoring only four points against Loras, Fred managed to hold down his opposing center, who sank very few points. His fine defensive guarding and effective rebounding make him a threat in any game, as his opponents have learned with much regret.

This 6'3" junior is a familiar figure among the members of the Wartburg athletic department. Not only has Fred lettered in basketball, but is equally valuable in football, where he plays both defensive and offensive end, and in track, where his work in the field events has made many points for the team.

This is the second time this year that Fritz has been nominated for the Athlete-of-the-Week honors. His first award came last fall for his remarkable play against the mighty Duhawk football team.

Matmen Succumb To Strong Colorado; Wrestle At Grinnell This Afternoon

By Fred Moberg

Invading University of Colorado matmen last Saturday edged out the Wartburg aggregation, 18-11, winning four of the nine contests. This afternoon the Black and Orange will tangle with the rugged Grinnell nine on the opponents' canvas.

In 1950 Wartburg took an impressive 27-5 victory from the Grinnell squad. Grinnell's only returning men are Burd, who pinned Charlie Adams last year, and Oakes, who lost a 7-6 decision to Howie Wolfgram.

Although scores are not an indication of outcome or strength, Grinnell dropped Augustana early in the season by a 21-8 decision, and Wartburg lost to Augustana 16-15. Both squads have changed considerably, so the contest should be a toss-up this afternoon.

Downing Leaves.

Wartburg's conference bopes suffered another setback this week as Fred Downing, the present scoring record holder, left to be inducted into the navy. Fred had a 7.3 season record, having lost only to Mankato, South Dakota State and Colorado U.

Veteran heavyweight, Otto Zwanziger, added another victory to the string and will no doubt be gunning for the eighth today when he meets Grinnell's heavy boy, Jack Harris. Otto squeezed out Bob Schalk last Saturday in a thrilling mat joust to make his total scoring record now 19.

Bredfield Wins Again.

"Abe" Bradfield, the West Waterloo whiz, decisioned Colorado's all-very, all-active champ Skinner 7-6 as he chalked up his fifth straight. "Abe" will probably meet Grinnell's Ray Oakes today.

Wayne Clough, aggresive 130-pound Knight entry and former Waterloo star, decisioned Dick Worster of Colorado 10-4, as he also continued in the quest of a perfect record. Clough has four straight now and this week will wrestle Williams of Grinnell. Clough has cut to 123 pounds and will probably hold the lightweight spot in the conference tourney.

Reasland Drews.

Ray Reasland, 177-pound grappler, drew with Ryder of Colorado 9-9. Ray will wrestle at either 167- or 177-pounds this afternoon. The 177- pound Chapman of Grinnell was decisioned 6-2 by Benson of Augustana, who also decisioned Ray 7-5. It adds up to an unpredictable outcome.

R. Pontiac Bowlers Regain First Place With 22-11 Record

Ritchie Pontiac holds a two-game lead in the Wartburg college bowling league this week as the team once more got in stride by sweeping a three-game series from its opponents. Several of the top leaders failed to remain in contention for the lead, as they couldn't match the torrid pace set by Ritchie's.

Top Hat Cleaners, who managed to salvage two out of three games, and Larry's Standard Service, who swept three, were the only teams to maintain the hot pace set by last week's bowlers. Meyer's Drug Store dropped three straight to fall from a first place tie to a third.

Ed Cherik, bowling for Top Hat Cleaners, managed to cop high single-game honors with a lowly 168. Vic Wenger, of Mueller Cleaners, was second with 181. Cherik also was high-series champ with 527 for an average of 175.

Team high single games went to Ritchie Pontiac with 812, 745 and 723. Ritchie also held down high series with 2,280.

Sandburg Impresses Crowd But Falls Below Expectations

By Claude Greiling

Students are uncertain but inclined to be a bit dissappointed after Carl Sandburg's highly advertised visit here last Sunday. America's Elder Poet had much to say in his disconnected, off-the-cuff fashion, but we wish his whole program could have been more carefully organized.

As it was, he struck us as serious, interesting but a bit aloof from his audience. He was good, no doubt, but we had been led to expect more.

Makes Pleasant Contrast.

Perhaps his most outstanding characteristic was the fact that for the first time in a long time we had the feeling of being addressed by a normal human being. After the endless high-strung political harangues which all of us are subjected to via radio every day, his earthy, earnest analysis of our times was refreshing in spite of its disconnectedness.

First part of his program was by far the most impressive. The parallel which he drew between Lincoln's time and our own was well executed, and his points well taken. Many of his statements might well be taken to heart by our Washington administrators.

Responsibility Important.

"In times like the present, we should not utter anything for which we would not willingly be responsible in time and eternity. The question is not—can any of us imagine better, but—can any of us do better."

"We must disenthrall ourselves if we would save our world."

He dwelt at length on this point the danger of being made slaves of tradition. When circumstances require it, we should be willing to throw our habits and established ways out of the window.

He gave a little known quotation of Lincoln's, which applies surprisingly well to the present:

"Fellow citizens—we cannot escape history; we will be remembered in spite of us."

'Pity The Little Men.'

"When we look back to those times, we feel sorry for the little men who did not know that history was in the making," he added.

He went on to quote from a letter by the famous British surgeon McIntosh, written to a Viennese colleague:

"The race of man may reach the promised land, but there is no assurance that the present generation will not perish in the wilderness."

Remainder of his program consisted of the reading of his own poetry and some popular ballads which he sang to the accompaniment of his own guitar.

Poetry Among Worst.

It was here that he gave the impression of aloofness more than anywhere else. His poetry seemed chosen at random, some of it coming from among his worst. If he attempted at all to key it to his audience, we failed to notice it.

Furthermore, he arrived 45 minutes late. That, however, was not his fault. But he might have cut his singing program a bit short. Toward the end, his audience responded with applause only when he made it obviously desirable by stopping after several numbers. Many of his listeners, however appreciative in the beginning, left the Knights gym with a definite feeling of relief. It was too long.

WAA Intramurals Set Fast BB Pace

By Wayne Koetz

First two games of the women's intramural round-robin basketball tournament were held on the evening of Feb. 14, with first and second floor of Werthurg hall taking a breath-taking game from third floor by the count of 43-35.

Dona Frederichsen and Joanne Schmidt took high scoring honors for the victors with 25 and 16 points respectively, while Barbara Martens, Lorraine Chester and Harriet Moore copped top honors for the losers with 12, 11 and 9 points each. Marjorie Knoab proved herself exceptionally capable on defense for the winners.

In the second game of the evening, off-campus scored a close victory over fourth floor by a tally of 22-19. Marcella Peterson was high scorer for the winners with 16 points while Glowrine Weber was high for the vanquished with a total of 9 points. Maxine Loots at both guard and forward was outstanding player of the game.

Final games of the tournament will be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights of next week.

Knights Gym Place For Duhawk-Eagle Division Play-Off

Knights gymnasium will be the scene of one of the biggest basketball tussles of the season Monday night, Feb. 26, at 8 p.m. when the Loras Duhawks collide with the Westmar Eagles to determine the champion of the northern division of the Iowa conference.

Both teams finished their regular conference chores with an 8-2 record. Westmar has a 15-4 overall mark for the season while Loras has a 20-6 record to claim the top spots percentage-wise among Iowa colleges.

Top leaders in the Iowa conference scoring department will also clash as Loras' Jim McCabe, owning a 22.4 average per game, and Vic Grothaus, sporting a 20.6 average, exchange shots at the nets.

Admission price will be 75 cents for students and $1.25 for adults.

Beethoven On Agenda For Campus Concert

Beethoven's artistic "Symphony No. 8 in F Major" will lead the program with pastoral scenes in music at the Music Appreciation club's campus concert in Wartburg hall lounge tonight at 7:30 p.m., according to Jeanette Priehe, junior and program chairman.

Program of music on records will include the dissonant and modern "Protee-Symphonic Suite No. 2" by Milhaud, and the Rubenstein treatment of Tchaikovsky's well-known "Piano Concerto in B-Flat Minor." The ever-popular music of George Gershwin will conclude the concert.

Refreshments will be served following the concert. Miss Priehe extends a hearty invitation to all to attend and hear this recorded music.
